About Habitat Chesapeake

Over the past 35 years, Habitat for Humanity of the Chesapeake has built or renovated 740+ homes throughout Central Maryland, providing 2,500+ children and family members with safety, stability and a chance for a better future. Last year alone, Habitat Chesapeake worked on 24 homes, helping 16 hardworking families become homeowners.

Our Building on Faith Initiative

“Faith must become more than a verbal proclamation. True faith must be acted out.”

So said Habitat for Humanity's founder, Millard Fuller, a millionaire who gave away his fortune to build homes alongside families in need. Habitat for Humanity is deeply rooted in this spirit of faith - striving to put God's love into action, so that everyone has a safe, decent, affordable place to call home. Churches, synagogues, mosques and other faith institutions remain one of our strongest resources for volunteer support, funding, gifts in kind and homebuyer referrals.

How You Can Help

There are many ways faith-based organizations can engage with Habitat for Humanity of the Chesapeake. See below and help us build more homes, communities & hope for families across Central Maryland!

- Invite Habitat Chesapeake to speak at a service, committee meeting or youth group
- Schedule a volunteer opportunity on a construction site or in one of our ReStores
- Donate collection from one service
- Seek in-kind donations of construction materials and services
- Promote Habitat's homebuying program to potential partner families
- Advocate for affordable and inclusive housing in your community
